Introduction to the Game

"Please, Don't Touch Anything" is a unique point-and-click puzzle game developed by Four Quarters. The game immerses players in a mysterious environment where they are confronted with a strange control panel filled with various buttons and levers. The primary objective is to explore the consequences of pressing these buttons while avoiding catastrophic outcomes. The game combines humor, mystery, and engaging gameplay, making it a favorite among puzzle enthusiasts.

The premise is simple yet compelling: you are tasked with keeping your hands off the control panel while your colleague steps away. However, curiosity often gets the best of players, leading to numerous explorations and unexpected outcomes. Each action can lead to different endings and achievements, encouraging players to experiment and discover all possibilities.

Game Mechanics

The game operates on a straightforward point-and-click mechanic, allowing players to interact with various elements on the screen. Understanding the basic controls is crucial to navigate the game effectively.

Basic Controls

Players can click on various components of the control panel, such as buttons, screens, and levers. Each click can trigger different events, leading to diverse outcomes. Players must be cautious, as some actions can lead to instant failure or bizarre scenarios.

Inventory System

The game does not have a traditional inventory system, but players can collect clues and items that appear on the screen. Observing the environment carefully is key to solving puzzles effectively. Players will need to remember the various interactions they have had with the control panel to progress.

Puzzle Solutions
