Understanding the Series 65 Exam

The Series 65 exam, also known as the Uniform Investment Adviser Law Examination, is administered by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA). The primary aim of this exam is to assess the knowledge and competence of individuals seeking to become investment advisor representatives. The exam consists of 130 multiple-choice questions, and candidates must achieve a score of at least 72% to pass.

The topics covered in the Series 65 exam can be broadly categorized into several key areas:

- Understanding the role of investment advisers and the basics of the securities industry
- Knowledge of various investment vehicles, including stocks, bonds, and mutual funds
- Understanding economic factors and their impact on the markets
- Regulatory framework governing investment advisers

- Ethics and fiduciary responsibilities

Familiarizing yourself with these topics is critical for effective test preparation. A solid understanding of these areas will not only help you pass the exam but also equip you with the necessary knowledge to serve your clients effectively in your future role.
